Important Update on Pietermaritzburg Campus

Dear Student,

We are aware of a rumour currently circulating that our Pietermaritzburg (PMB) campus will be closing in 2027. This is not the case, and we would like to provide clarity on our future plans.

Following the recent announcement regarding the development of Emeris's new mega-campus in Durban, we are pleased to share further context on what this means for our Pietermaritzburg community.

The Pietermaritzburg campus will remain fully operational until the end of 2029. There are no plans to close the campus in 2027, and teaching, learning, and student support will continue as normal for the next several years.

As part of Emeris's long-term investment in strengthening and scaling our higher education offering in KwaZulu-Natal, the Pietermaritzburg campus will relocate to the new Durban mega-campus once its first phase opens in 2029. This transition forms part of a broader strategy to enhance our academic environment and student experience.

The new Durban campus will be a large, purpose-built university environment designed to support modern teaching and learning, expanded programme offerings, advanced facilities, and a vibrant, future-focused student experience. This development represents an exciting step forward and will position Emeris within one of the most dynamic higher education environments in the country.

Importantly, all current and prospective students enrolling at the Pietermaritzburg campus can do so with confidence. Current students will be able to complete their qualifications within the standard minimum duration at the PMB campus before the planned transition in 2029. New students studying 3 year degrees or Higher Certificates will also have to opportunity to complete their qualifications in Pietermaritzburg until the end of 2029.

For students who may require additional time beyond the minimum completion period, there will be flexible pathways available to ensure they can complete their studies seamlessly, either through our Online (Distance) campus or at the new Durban campus once it opens.

This decision reflects our confidence in the strength and legacy of the Pietermaritzburg campus, and its important role in shaping the next phase of growth for Emeris.

We remain fully committed to maintaining the quality, continuity, and student experience at the Pietermaritzburg campus in the years leading up to this transition. We will continue to keep you informed as development progresses and more details become available.

Thank you for your continued trust and partnership.
